

Execution of civilians in Southern Israel: Photographic & Video Evidence of massacres against non-combatants by Hamas

By: KYB Group

October, 13th 2023

Covering: "Operation Iron Swords"

Introduction:

Since the start of Israel's recent "Operation Iron Swords", initiated in reaction to an invasion launched by Hamas into Southern Israel, where civilian communities were captured and held for around 2-3 days before ultimately being pushed back into Gaza, there has been an attempt by many who include themselves among the "Pro-Palestine" or "Anti-Israel" camp to deny that a large number of civilians, which range from anywhere between 500-600 (based on currently available testimonial, photographic, and video evidence) were directly executed by Hamas combatants upon their seizure of territory in Israel's southern region.

This has occurred despite the fact that on the day of October 7th, when the invasion began, a large sum of video, audio, and photographic material was released by Hamas fighters themselves, mostly onto the popular SMS application Telegram, of them executing Israeli civilians in these areas. This is in addition to a large number of videos taken by civilians, who managed to flee the sites under assault, being reposted by Hamas fighters on their respective social media profiles again taking credit for executing the civilians found within them.

Hundreds of millions, particularly in the Western world, immediately bore witness to these videos on places such as X.com (formerly called "Twitter") as they were being uploaded by a large number of accounts on both sides of the conflict.

During this time, large pro-Palestinian accounts (who will be named in the document below) essentially ignored the existence of these videos, and instead either focused on celebrating the invasion of Hamas into Southern Israel, or spent time trying to draw attention to civilian casualties on the Palestinian side of the conflict caused previously to the current war.

Some 3 days afterwards, they began to deny the existence of the above mentioned material entirely, despite being seen by hundreds of millions around the world, and started to suggest that Israel had simply "fabricated these killings from nothing" as apart of an intensive campaign of "atrocious propaganda", fueled by Israel's motivation to gain approval from the western world in their military retaliation against Hamas within the Gaza Strip as well as Southern Israel.

This attempt has also included the assertion that Israel has been unable to produce even “one photo” of those killed by Hamas in large scale massacres targeting the civilian population, with some trying to draw a comparison between this event and that of “Bucha”, where many of those who either belong to the Pro-Russia or anti-Ukraine camp regarding the Ukraine war suggest that there is no footage or photographic evidence of the Russian military committing crimes against humanity in Bucha, alongside the execution of hundreds of Ukrainian civilians.

This document exists with the intention of demonstrating the sizable amount of video and photographic evidence which directly records the mass murder of civilians within Southern Israel as carried out by Hamas, contrary to the claims of the contenders mentioned above.

Background:

These photos have been taken from an assembly of sources, both that of independent photographers, media outlets, social media posts from both Israel and Hamas proponents, Hamas’s official telegram, and in-person witnesses who were present to document the events as they unfolded either via video or photograph.

We are not relying on the sources themselves to inform us of the location of these events or the context behind them. There exists a common accusation levied by both Israel and Palestine proponents that the other side has a tendency to either upload “old videos/photos”, “footage from Ukraine” or other wars (such as Yemen/Syria), or that they are even from “movie sets” and “video games”, such as that of “Arma 3”.

Rather, we will be verifying the authenticity of this evidence on the basis of geolocation, such as seen here, here, here, here, here, here, here, here, and here, with one of the aforementioned examples being listed and archived in the text of the document below. We also rely upon other markers, such as corroborating evidence from different photographs, audio that fits the context of the videos which are recorded, and writing on different items captured inside the videos which denotes the location and time of these videos to in fact be Southern Israel from October 7th, 2023 to October 13th, 2023.

For each of the sources used in our compilation of evidence, we have provided both the raw footage/photograph itself for each number of casualties mentioned, alongside an archive link to the original post providing the files themselves to ensure that both the context they were uploaded in and the time they appeared are preserved, considering that social media sites such as “X” tend to repeatedly suspend or delete posts which include graphic imagery against their Terms of Service.

Our other intention in including the social media posts in which these images were provided is to demonstrate the fact that these images and videos were indeed seen by millions as mentioned prior, and were not circulated only after the fact that many detractors began to suggest no such video or photographic evidence existed.

This document is not created to address the claims that the opposing side has also levied regarding testimonial evidence as well. Only some testimonial evidence will be included, such as that which corroborates wartime rape (considering that at the current moment many of the corpses of dead civilians are being exhumed and are in the process of autopsy) from witnesses who were confirmed to be present either via video or photographic evidence left over from the past week. Testimonial evidence (such as is seen here) in this case, however, is not difficult to find, compared to photographic/videographic evidence, due to the fact that large numbers of social media posts which make these photographs immediately available to the public are being rapidly removed due to their graphic content. This is, as noted previously, primarily done by the managers of these social media platforms in an attempt to uphold their Terms of Service.

There are many photos which have not been included in the contents of this document due to the fact that they are too numerous to include at this time. They may be added later into the document as potential updates are made to fully represent the number of civilian executions caught on camera.

What will also be omitted from the count of those executed are photos of civilians in body bags. Photographs which contain coverings placed over bodies are not included due to the fact that the corpses themselves are also visible in each of those photos alongside the items used to cover the remains as well. The reason for this is that detractors have suggested, seemingly on the basis of no evidence, that these body bags either must be “empty” or that they are not actually being used for human corpses. This claim will also be covered as well later on in the document.

For the sake of clarity, it also must be stated that no images nor footage included in this document have been taken from military bases or of the corpses of on duty members of the Israel Defense Forces or those who were residing at the aforementioned bases when they fell under siege by Hamas combatants. Only videographic/photographic evidence of execution performed against unarmed non-combatants in civilian/non-military areas has been included.

Finally, none of the images below include any civilian who has died as a result of airstrikes, rocket fire, or artillery launched from Gaza into mainland Israel or into its Southern region; only those who were killed by active combatants on the ground which serves as the expanse of the conflict has been included. I. E. only those who have been executed by rifle, blade, burnings or hand-held explosives will be enumerated in the photographs and videos below.

The first portion immediately below this section will be covering the primary purpose of this document, that is to gather video and photo evidence of Hamas executions of civilian casualties within Southern Israel, particularly detailing visible corpses in the respective locations of which these executions are established to have taken place. The second section is entitled “Appendix”, the contents of which can be viewed at the end of this document. That section details the claims of many deniers regarding Hamas’s activities against civilians in Israel’s Southern region and establishes the large sum of substantial evidence which entirely disproves the narratives which they seek to propagate.

Breaking Israel: Entire families and car loads of Israeli civilians have been slaughtered in the most brutal surprise attack on the Sabbath when many Israelis were celebrating #Shabat

The Israeli Defence forces appear to have been completely caught off-guard and the feared #Mossad intelligence services have failed spectacularly in preventing this horrific attack.

We are likely to see a retaliation so severe that Palestine may cease to exist.

Iran watches with interest and considers whether to take advantage of a blindsided Israel and push the attack to destroy the nation of Israel once and for all.

They raped the women then they burned them alive. Take a good look at this. And then take a look around and see what professors, which student groups, what members of Congress are justifying this. And get them out of America. Because they would support the rape and murder of your daughter, too. This is not just about Israel. This is about pro terror and terror affiliated groups around the world justifying this so that they can come after us as well. This is not about land. This is a theological war. #HamasisSIS

Conclusion:

Upon enumerating the corpses captured in the images above, the total number of corpses which have been caught on camera (from those photos and videos which have been so far covered in this document) stands at around 140. This number does not take into account the videographic/photographic evidence which has yet to be included in this document, but may be appended in the near future with the development of research in relation to the matter at hand.

All over social media, in some cases even after extolling the recorded execution of civilians on their own pages, a number of pro-Palestine accounts have entirely denied the occurrence of each of these killings, and challenged people to come up with even a single piece of evidence that they happened, as if they themselves have not publicized the exact proof which they demand. This document was written with the objective that its contents will serve to completely and definitively discredit such denial with an abundant wealth of information and evidence.

Appendix: Refutations

This appendix will be divided into multiple sections, with each section being gradually added onto the document over time. A table of contents will also be installed upon the completion of the appendix.

The following contents of the Appendix are written in refutation of common attempts at denying the events which befell Southern Israel's civilian population outside of any militarized zone occupied by the Israel Defense Forces.

1. Did Netanyahu post an AI generated Image?

Several pro-Palestinian accounts (such as here and here) have alleged that Netanyahu posted an AI-generated image asserting that it was a photo of one of the infants burned alive in Kfar Azza. They claim that the website aiornot.com, which is designed to differentiate which images are authentic vs which images are made by artificial intelligence, had detected that the image was actually the result of AI generation and not genuine.

The main problem with this claim is that these kinds of AI detectors are not reliable at all. They will sometimes pick up real images as made by AI, while clearing AI images as authentic.

Here are some examples. The following Picasso paintings are all human generated, and yet the AI detector detects them as AI:

On the other hand, these two images were all generated by AI (links included to show their source), and yet, the AI detector detects them both as human:

Aiornot.com results:

Clearly, using this AI detector to make a confident claim that these photos are fake, when it repeatedly cannot properly identify images which we definitively know how they were generated, is nonsensical. This alone should debunk all attempts to use the AI image detector evidence that should be taken seriously.

But it actually gets much worse than this for those who made this claim. Netanyahu's tweet included three images. Two of them are detected by the AI detector as human:

And it gets EVEN worse than this. The same AI detector, when we put the image into it that everyone is casting aspersions on, for the author of this report, was detected as human!

This means that the AI detector can literally give a different result for the same image, making it even more unreliable.

In fact, the second image of the charred remains is the same as the one as the preceding it in the original post by The Prime Minister's office, as seen above. Here are both of them side by side for comparison:

The source for the same remains has also seemingly been identified here in a completely different photo when the remains were still in their original location, Kfar Azza.

Here are more examples of people attempting this on their own and getting inconsistent results:

Clearly, even according to the AI detector itself, this image is not consistently detected as AI, and many report a human result when using the tool themselves. This inconsistency is even further reason not to trust the detector as a reliable tool.

So why is the image detected sometimes as human and sometimes as AI? Aside from its general unreliability, the way that all AI image testers work is that they detect abnormalities in photos, for that reason anything that can't be explicitly or clearly identified as a specific item which would be common or familiar to human users is generally marked as "AI". This also applies to anything which cannot be given an arbitrarily defined shape. Take for example a photo of human remains, while we've demonstrated many times that these same human remains have been identified as human by this same AI generator being used by detractors to contend that Netanyahu posted a fabricated image, it is easily predicted that it at least, at some point, would identify an image of charred human remains, of which clear shape is difficult to ascertain by a mere glance alone, as an image which has been generated by human hands of physical reality, but as something created by a computer attempting to approximate what physical reality is like.

Take for example the Picasso paintings mentioned above. Each of them were drawn by human hands some 60 years before computer generated art would ever be conceived, however every single time they were scanned, the detector marked them as "AI generated". This includes the painting which did not contain any strange patterns or vibrant colors, which was that of a man with a guitar. This is due to the fact that, as mentioned above, the paintings seem to depict images which take on an arbitrarily unnatural shape, which tend to be rendered by, as previously mentioned, computers trying to approximate a novel image which is supposed to reflect reality, but because of the fact that the computer is not physical, it can only make an estimate-based attempt at producing something which resembles a still frame of the physical world. This also happens when we place Van Gogh paintings into the detector, some results come back as such:

Even though these were all painted over 130 years prior to AI generated artwork, the detector cannot help but identify them as the result of AI generation, and not still photos of a physical painting. This is especially so considering that, again, the third painting in the series of Van Gogh compositions listed above is marked as “generated by AI”, despite having no peculiar or abnormal patterns in it which would prevent the viewer from immediately identifying the contents of the painting as specific real-life objects. One is immediately able to define the shape and category of item the image displayed in the painting characterizes.

However, an additional claim has been made by pro-Palestinian accounts. Not only do they claim that this image is AI generated, but that they have even found the original image that the posted image is derived from. This claim was made by Sam Parker here. In case, the original 4chan thread gets deleted, here it is archived.

This is the image they claim is the original:

<https://i.4cdn.org/pol/1697147088972594.png>

Of course, it is just as possible that this photo is the doctored one and the other one is the original. But the 4chan posts insists that the dog is the original.

There are multiple problems with this claim. The dog, even if it's a rescue, seems perfectly clean and safe. So why is there ash all over the table and the inside of the blanket? Why does this seem to be an autopsy table with coagulated blood? How do this environment and situation make any sense for such a dog to be in? The answer is, they don't, because this is a medical ward, morgue, or autopsy facility.

Furthermore, when this image is run through a reverse image search, nothing comes up anywhere. The fact that the image itself is corroborated by no other evidence whatsoever, no image reverse searches on any public or private search engine of any aspect of the image, along with the fact that the other images posted by Netanyahu's account have been proven to be genuine, as well as being in the same place as the second photo of the charred remains, renders the idea that this photo of a dog with an obvious never before seen strange deformity that more so resembles an AI generation error or a poor utilization of the "fill" tool that is found on most photoshop programs such as that of Adobe, allows us to objectively conclude that this supposed photo of a dog is evidently a weakly composed fabrication attempting to be passed off as the original.

Beyond all of these things that don't make sense, we can also do a noise analysis of the images to check which one is the edited one and which is the original. Fortunately, this extremely detailed analysis was already conducted by a twitter user, which conclusively proves that the dog image is the doctored one, and the burned baby is the original. 2. Is Shani Louk alive?

During October 7th, 2023, when the invasion of Hamas combatants into Israel past the border fence began, a video was uploaded of a human body being taken back to Gaza from the massacre that occurred in Re'em. It was that of 22-year-old Shani Nicole Louk, a German-Israeli tattoo artist who was attending a rave near the Gazan border in which 260 were killed and some number of civilians present were kidnapped. Her body was paraded through the streets in front of a crowd and was spat on, as can be seen here (another angle can also be found here). While most had presumed her dead, partially due to her composure and due to the fact that she, as proven via direct video confirmation, was taken from the Rave in which around 260 people were killed after Hamas began opening fire on the attendants, Shani Louk among them.

After essentially ignoring this video, like many others, 3 days later, Pro-Palestine accounts such as PartisanGirl began to suggest that Shani Louk was actually alive. Like most of the detractors to the fact that Hamas combatants had intentionally executed well over 500 civilians in Southern Israel during their invasion despite the mountain of videographic, photographic, and testimonial evidence which exists in direct substantiation of each of the hundreds of aforementioned casualties, PartisanGirl seems to be unable to read past a simple headline.

The basis for the assertion that Shani Louk was actually alive was the claim of her mother, Ricarda Louk, who previously believed Shani's probability of survival to be "very bad" yet that she herself "still has hope" that Shani was still alive, being held somewhere within the Gaza Strip.

Her mother testified that she had received messages which then asserted that Shani may still be alive whilst under treatment for a head injury within a Gazan hospital. While many people were quick to believe this statement without further investigation, we find that Shani's mother, while certainly retaining her reliability and credibility as a witness, never actually revealed how exactly she knew her daughter had survived. As mentioned previously, what was stated by Shani's mother is that she had received messages from a source that indicated Shani to still be alive. However, the content and details behind this source are entirely unknown. We do not possess the name, background, nor any information, credible or uncredible behind this source whatsoever. Nor do we possess the contents of the messages themselves which Ricarda Louk testified had reached her, originating from this supposed source.

For this reason, from an objective perspective, appealing to this supposed "source" as a proof that Shani Louk was not killed by Hamas combatants is ultimately futile. The public has no way to investigate anything to do with this source, nor the source itself, especially considering that we do not know what the source had even claimed. One must rely on the interpretation of Ricarda Louk herself of the information that she had supposedly obtained; however, without need for repetition, there is no supporting evidence which attests to the accuracy of her interpretation at all.

When we examine the physical state of Shani Louk's person from the footage available to us as provided by those present among the crowd she was paraded in, we can see that Shani Louk's legs are, quite literally, bent backwards in a position that can only be achieved when the legs are fully broken. She also appeared to have some kind of blood running down the side of her face with some indication that the source of the wound may be in a higher area than where the blood is visible on the skin. Her arms also appear to be contorted in a specific manner which, again, is only possible when the arms are fully broken to the point that they can no longer be prevented from bending in certain ways. She seems to be completely lifeless, with no reaction or slight movement being exhibited by her person, even when multiple other people climb over and drag her by the hair and spit on her. Some have suggested a seemingly slight discoloration in the skin as a sign that her blood has pooled, as is very common in corpses during the preliminary stages of decease.

Considering the information mentioned above, alongside the fact that she was paraded with other corpses in the same street (see the latter video listed in the first paragraph), and that she was taken to Gaza from a rave in which 260 civilians were systematically executed upon Hamas's arrival at Re'em, the evidence which is currently present only seems to suggest that Shani is deceased, contrary to what many Pro-Palestine pages would wish to purport.

This comes as no concern to individuals such as PartisanGirl however, considering that she seems to have immediately dismissed the evidence pointing to the fate of Shani Louk in favor of something which does not constitute useful or sufficient evidence by any means. Anonymous implications cannot stand to contest clear videographic and physical evidence which points to the polar opposite of what those attempting to utilize said implications desire to propagate.
